Putting Our Trust in Christ

*by the Reverend Dr.
L. Holton Siegling, Jr.*

A New Year has begun - a new chapter within God's story of salvation that we have been blessed to write. So with all that is going on in your life and the life of the world, how do you find yourself feeling about the future as we stand on the threshold of the year of our Lord 2009?

How we relate to the future, that is, how we live into our calling of faith and hope and love, determines to a very great extent what we experience and how we greet the ever changing circumstances of life. Let me give you three examples:

First, when our Session adopted our 2009 "balanced" Budget in mid-December (you may recall that we adopted a deficit budget in 2008 and had anticipated having to do so for some time thereafter), I sensed a quiet confidence in the room: not confidence in ourselves, mind you, but rather a confidence in the richness of God's grace. Recently, when it became apparent that our income was going to exceed our expenses in 2008, a fact which was due in large part to our not yet having called an Associate Pastor, the Session gave an additional $43,200 to the Mission Committee for immediate disbursement!

Secondly, I am happy to report to you that, while we may not have had our Associate Pastor in place last year, our Associate Pastor Nominating Committee (APNC) has asked the Session to call a meeting of the congregation on Sunday, January 11, 2009, for the purpose of hearing its report; the Session has concurred. We eagerly anticipate our APNC's report, for it reflects nearly a year-long search for the person whom God has now called to serve in our midst: the one who will, by God's grace, help us to make the next chapter of our lives together better than all those that have preceded it.

Thirdly, our Session recently approved an overture to the St. Augustine Presbytery, which can be found on our church's website: www.1stpres-fb.com. The overture addresses "Authoritative Interpretations" and how they function in the life of the greater church. While there are a host of overtures that exist which address the several issues facing the PC (USA) today, few of them effectively speak to the future of our church from a constitutional perspective. In accepting this overture, I believe that we are offering an effective constitutional option and are doing so in a hopeful and supportive manner.

Friends, when we put our trust in Christ, we begin to see the world as God sees the world. When we allow Christ's Spirit to pervade our lives, our living begins to look somewhat incarnational inasmuch as we bear witness to the mission of God and allow the light of Christ to penetrate the even darkest corners of our lives. There is always hope when it comes to God's future! Oh, it may appear to be a bit uncertain from time to time, but as Corrie Ten Boom once said, "Never be afraid to trust an unknown future to a known God."

Isaiah teaches, "So shall my word be

that goes forth from my mouth; it shall not return to me empty, but it shall accomplish that which I purpose, and prosper in the thing for which I sent it."

Happy New Year!

A Book Review

Biblical Foundations for Small Group Ministry, by Gareth Icenogle

Throughout the introduction and section one of his book, Icenogle makes some very good points that help us understand the theological tuning of small groups, an idea which he claims as the purpose of his book. He talks of covenants and uses instances in the Bible to support the theory of a covenant as that which exists for a community. For example, Icenogle would argue that God's covenant with Abraham had to do not just with Abraham but many others as well; thus, the covenant component for small groups is that God is going to be with the group. Icenogle encourages small groups to not only be supportive of their own members but also to have an impact on the outside world through their behavior and relationships.

In addition to his 10 commandments for small groups, Icenogle offers guidelines and detailed explanations to indicate how a small group can deepen its communication skills. Some of his suggestions are as follows: move from cliché conversation to reporting the facts; share one's ideas and opinions; share feelings, values, and emotions; and finally share personal confessions. Icenogle argues that, when a group grows closer together, these levels of interpersonal sharing can occur.

Icenogle keeps the reader focused on the importance of building relationships and establishing a clear mission or task, a goal which he believes is vital for small group success. He elaborates in great detail upon the inclusion of men and women as well as the proper use of time and talents. Leadership, Icenogle argues, centers around the concept of having a strong sense of direction: not an overbearing style that kills but a style that gives life and empowers the group members. Identifying and appointing leaders and giving them a structure they can work in enables the group to be led by its members as they grow in respect and knowledge of each other and of the mission itself.

Party of Eight

Adult Dinner Groups of 8 will meet in February, March, April, and May to share a meal and each other as we build fellowship in the body of Christ. Don't miss out on the pleasure of gathering around the table with other members of First Presbyterian Church. We all have different gifts, talents and interests; and therefore, have much to offer one another. Groups will be introduced on Friday, January 23rd at the Kick-Off Dinner in Jim Thomas Hall. There you will meet your other dinner partners, enjoy a fine meal, delightful entertainment and some getting to know you better conversation.

Look for registration forms in the bulletin in January or pick one up in the church office. Please RSVP no later than Monday, January 19th. It's a lot of fun making new friends.

MAC'S AFTER CHRISTMAS

Out of the Saltshaker

In January the Saltshakers Adult Sunday school class will begin a new series, FOUNDATIONS OF APOLOGETICS. This series is designed to introduce a comprehensive range of apologetic arguments and strategies and features lectures by Ravi Zacharias and his team of apologists. This DVD curriculum will help us become adept at recognizing the many worldviews influencing our culture and equipped to challenge the assumptions of these worldviews.

Please join us at 9:50 am in our classroom in Jim Thomas Hall.

December has been a month of great joy for the Mission Committee!

The Session authorized $43,200 of remaining 2008 funds to be used by the Mission Committee for distribution to our most needy and deserving mission projects. It felt so good to be able to restore funding to our budget so that we could help those non-profits who are trying hard to meet the critical needs of the victims of hard times, here in the county and beyond.

In its three weeks of operation, God's Gift Shop was a resounding success. Nearly $2000 of gifts were purchased as Christmas gifts at the Gift Shop, for the DeLilles in Brazil, Kim Brown in Thailand, Gideon Bibles and Grace Kunzelmann's Christian songs CD. We are excited to pass these funds on to our mission projects. Additionally, the receipts from Grace's CDs are returning to the Mission Committee for our use.

Members of First Presbyterian had the pleasure of serving dinner to 54 hungry people at the Hope House on Tuesday, December 16. If you haven't had an opportunity to fix and serve dinner at one of these meals, contact Marilyn Showalter or Eunice Kurtz to participate. It has been an honor for this retiring Chairman of the Committee to meet and serve with some of the strongest and most loving Christians ever encountered. First Presbyterian Church is truly blessed to have this strong spiritual presence doing the mission work of the church.

The Granger family moved to Fernandina from Matthews, NC in June. With the exception of five-year-old Davis who was born in Matthews, NC, the Grangers are all native Floridians (Peg McKee Granger is a native of Fernandina). Bayly (22) is a senior at Appalachian State University in Boone, NC; Morgan (20) is a sophomore at University of Edinburgh in Scotland; and Davis is a proud kindergartner at Southside Elementary. David is employed by Wachovia, and Peg is an exceptional Student Education teacher at Yulee Elementary School.

John Brooks is a single dad with a 4 year old son. He grew up on the Northside of Jacksonville in the Yellow Bluff area. John graduated from UNF in 1996 and works in a partnership that provides service to a local paper mill. Max and Joann Hord are close friends who invited John to FPC. John comes by transfer of letter from the North Jacksonville Baptist church.

So What Should We Think of Hell?

Contemplations about hell don't seem to make front page news anymore. Modern reflections and interpretations regarding that place are more often found in movie theaters than in worship services. The sting of some of the tragic imagery contained within Dante's Divine Comedy seems to have been lost over time.

Why is that? Oh, we may presume to be on a different level than that of medieval theologians who would have located hell somewhere beneath the earth, and, indeed, we are. Even John Calvin, however, while recognizing the limits of such literal and sadistic talk of dungeons, etc., is nevertheless insistent that "these forms of speech denote, in a manner suited to our feeble capacity, a dreadful torment, which no man can now comprehend and no language can express."

Perhaps we steer clear of talking about hell because, as Mark Achtemeier, assistant professor of systematic theology at Dubuque Theological Seminary, has pointed out, "The apostles didn't go out preaching, 'You'll burn in hell unless you repent.' That is not what came first in the Biblical witness." Nevertheless, as theologian William Placher asserts, "We've fallen into the modern heresy that we're all basically pretty good people who don't need punishment. If we really thought more about our sin – if we really thought about people starving around the world while we're living in the midst of plenty – we'd worry more about God's grace to forgive us."

Consider carefully the phrase "God's grace to forgive us." In those few and simple words we witness the very tension that exists between grace versus judgment, love versus justice, subjects which must be part of any thoughtful discussion about hell. Dr. Tom Ascol, executive director of Founders Ministries, says, "By God's grace those of us who are trusting Christ have been rescued from this horrible destiny."

Hell may not be the first concept we talk about when we share with people the good news about the gift of grace freely given by God through Jesus Christ; however, our sharing of the gospel must of necessity include the sober realization of the consequences of our sin, a call for a deliberate determination to change, and result in a celebration of the Christ through whom our sins are forgiven.

Alexa Smith, associate for the Presbyterian News Service in Louisville, Ky., offers this parting word on the matter of hell: "What we can know for certain is that God's grace is as real as God's judgment – and just as incomprehensible. If we can say at least this much with conviction, then maybe scared [Christians] who wonder about hell won't have to look just to Dante for help." No, our help is in no other than Jesus Christ, and our judge is also our redeemer! Thanks be to God!

Did you know.....

God is good and has truly blessed this Body of Christ with a generous heart. In 1 Timothy 6:18,19, Paul says to Timothy "I command them to be generous and willing to share. In this way they will lay up treasure for themselves as a firm foundation for the coming age, so that they may take hold of the life that is truly life."

- A total of 210 family units completed Estimate of Giving Cards, through the end of last week.
- A total of 103 of these family units increased their financial commitment above last year's amount.
- These 210 family units committed a total of $662,000
- Based on last year's giving records we can expect to receive another $15,000 from those family's that have not yet turned in their Estimate of Giving cards.
- The average total of unpledged offerings during the past three years was $138,000.
- $662+15+138 gives us a grand total of $815,000 anticipated income for 2009.
- The total income for our general operating budget for the past 12 months was $771,000.

We would like to thank our Consecration Sunday team starting with Rev. Jim Tippins, our Guest Speaker, who prayed with and encouraged the team and inspired the congregation on Consecration Sunday. Our inspirational lay speakers were Rich Welshhans, Larry Williams and Jeannie Langley. Nancy Inboden and Bunny Selby worked tirelessly to provide 3 wonderful meals. We would also like to thank Charlie Monroe for his generous pricing of reproduction. Thanks to Barbara Kirkpatrick and Rose Anderson for their professional and confidential handling of all the details. And last, and most important, our Pastor Dr. Siegling for his leadership, for praying with us and praying for us and continually supporting our efforts.

New Communications Committee Members

As the new Elders and Deacons of the class of 2011 come in to office, their colleagues from class of 2008 are in the process of completing their duties and committee assignments, and making arrangements for the smooth transition to new leadership. Following their examination by the Session, on December 12th, the class as a whole will be ordained on Sunday January 18th, 2009.

Jack Dickison was born in Nashville; TN. but spent his formative years in the Syracuse, New York area. He graduated from Middlebury College, in Vermont with a BA in biology, & spent two years as a U.S. Army officer in Fairbanks, AK. He spent his working career in the Boston area, and was an executive with New England Tel/NYNEX/Verizon for twenty-four years. Subsequently he was the president of a computer consulting company for seven years. At various times he has been a competitive small boat sailor, a competitive downhill skier and a racing bicyclist. His current interests are weight lifting, walking and volunteering at Cats Angels shelter on 8th Street.

A native of Pennsylvania, Dean

Dobbins spent his working career in the Doylestown area of Bucks County operating a fuel oil and gasoline distribution business. During that time, Dean was an officer and board member of fuel oil dealers associations both on the county and state level. He served his community by being involved in service organizations and the Chamber of Commerce. Dean's previous church service involved committees, chairmanship of various boards, moving through practically all of the "chairs." He and wife Christine moved to Amelia Island in 1999, and joined First Presbyterian in 2000. They have served as Stephen Ministers; organized and produced the previous church pictorial directory, and have been ushers numerous times. Dean's lifelong love of the outdoors is the basis for his hobbies. He plays golf twice a week, and enjoys the fishing locally. But his real passion is turkey and deer hunting which he pursues in Florida, Georgia, and South Carolina.

Dr. Mack Sisson, and wife, Janet, moved their residence to Florida in 2006 after he retired with 40 years of service with Department of Veterans Affairs (DVA). Mack earned a Bachelor's degree in Pharmacy; and was awarded the Doctor of Pharmacy from the University of Tennessee. He also earned a Master's degree in Pharmacy from the University of Wisconsin; a Master's in Health Administration from the Medical College of Virginia, and a Specialty Certificate in Public Administration and Health Policy from Virginia Polytechnic Institute, State University (VPI). His career included working in six VA Medical Centers as the Chief of Pharmacy before becoming a Health System Specialist and finally as Director of the National Initiatives Division of Employee Education System for DVA in Washington, DC for 34 years. Mack and Janet joined FPC in 2006 and the choir on the same day. Their love and support for the music ministry of the church has been expressed in their previous churches. Their son and daughter, both married, live in Virginia.

Interfaith Dinner Network

On Tuesday, December 16th, First Presbyterian Church served 53 homeless and needy people at the Salvation Army's Hope House. We had 10 volunteers who served chili, hot dogs, and chips. Penny Page, a cute little puppy, enjoyed some of the chili.

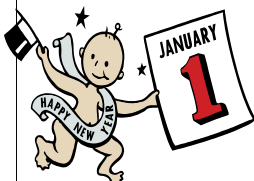

FPC provided the chili, and the Woman's Club of Fernandina Beach donated hot dogs, chips, and condiments. Thanks to all who helped and donated food. After the first of the year, dinners will be served on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday. In just six months we have been able to add another day of the week for dinners. FPC will be hosting dinner on January 20th, 2009.

We continue to ask for volunteers to help with the dinners as this is an ongoing ministry and our church has committed to the whole year. If you cannot physically help but would like to make a monetary donation that would also be helpful. If you feel that you can help out please contact Bill Erickson, Gail Neidernhofer, Eunice Kurtz, or Marilyn Showalter.
